The COMMONS ADDRESS. presented to His Majesty on Saturday, October 19*th*.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Great-Britain in Parliament assembled, beg Leave to return your Majesty our unfeigned Thanks for your Majesty's most gracious Speech from the Throne, and to congratulate your Majesty, upon your happy, safe, and seasonable Return, to these your Kingdoms.

We cannot sufficiently express our Abhorrence and Detestation of the unnatural Rebellion now raging in North Britain.

Permit us to give your Majesty the strongest Assurances of our Duty and Affection to your Person and Government, and to declare, that we will, with Vigilance, Zeal, and Unanimity, shew a Spirit and Vigour becoming this Time of Danger. In order to make these Sentiments effectual, your faithful Commons will grant such Supplies, and put such Strength into your Majesty's Hands, as, we trust in God, and hope from your Majesty's Wisdom, cannot fail to defeat the Attempts of those, who have already made one Part of the united Kingdom, and would make the other, a Scene of Blood, Rapine, and Confusion.

With Hearts full of Gratitude we acknowledge, that, under your Majesty's Royal Protection, we have lived in an uninterrupted and secure Enjoyment of our Religion, Laws, and Liberties.

As all these are now wickedly and openly attacked, we are bound by every Consideration, human and divine, to exert ourselves in the Defence of your sacred Person and Government.

Your Majesty may safely rely on the Zeal and Vigour of your faithful Commons; who are resolved to act like Men, sensible of the Blessings we enjoy, and determin'd to preserve those Blessings to ourselves and our Posterity.

We beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty on the general Concurrence of your Subjects in these Sentiments of Duty to your Majesty, and Zeal for your Service, which happy Union, we doubt not, will, by your Majesty's Wisdom, be improved to the future Glory and Welfare of your Crown and People, and to the utter Confusion and Disappointment of the Enemies to both.

His MAJESTY's most Gracious ANSWER.

Gentlemen,

I Return you my hearty Thanks for this dutiful and affectionate Address.

The Zeal and Vigour, which you have with so much Unanimity declared on this Occasion, will, I trust God, enable me to put a speedy End to this Rebellion. Whatever Strength you shall place in my Hands you may be assured shall be employed only to promote the Good and Happiness of my People and to secure to them the perpetual Enjoyment of their Religion, Laws, and Liberties.

Whitehall, Sept 28. By Letters from Berwick of the 26th and 28th we are inform'd, that about 500 of the Dragoons and Foot under John Cope were then there; that some of the Foot had likewise got to that Place, and others were gone for Carlisle, and that Le Roque's Regiment of Dutch Troops landed there on the 23d in the Morning. That the Rebels, after the late Action, lay some Time at Duddingston and Musselburgh, near Edinburgh, and then return'd to that City.

We were inform'd from York, that his Grace the Lord Archbishop had put on a Lay Military Habit, in order to spirit forward the Execution of what his Grace had so bravely and pathetically recommended in his Speech upon the Association there. [Which I shall insert in my next.] That the Gentlemen of the County had already subscribed 90,000 l. for arming cloathing and paying 4000 Men in Defence of his Majesty's Person and Government, and their Religion, Liberties and Properties, and had resolv'd to augment that Sum, if there should be Occasion. That several Gentlemen of considerable Fortunes have resolved to form themselves, and their Servants, into a Regiment of Light Horse for the King's Service, such as compose it are to be mounted on stout Fox hunters, and are to serve at their own Expence, under the Command of Major General Oglethorpe, (now in the North, to command a Body of Troops against the Rebels) They were muster'd upon a Place called Knaves Mire, and made a very fine Appearance.

London, Oct 3 This Day 15 Pieces of Brass Cannon, 11 Waggons laden with military Stores, 2 Smiths Forges, and 9 Carriages laden with Powder and Ball, were sent from the Tower to the North, attended by 100 Matrosses, Gunners and Bombardiers.

Oct 5. By Letters of the 30th past from Berwick, the Rebels had not then mov'd from Edinburgh. The Officers they had taken Prisoners in the late Action near Prestonpans, were, on the 30th in the Morning, sent to Perth; and they were to pass the Forth four Miles above Stirling, at the same Place where the Rebels had cross'd that River in their March Southward; the private Men, who were Prisoners, had been sent by the same Road the Day before, and the Wounded remain'd in the Infirmary at Edinburgh.

We were likewise assur'd, by Letters of the 29 past at Noon, from the Castle of Edinburgh, that the Communication betwixt the Town and Castle had been still then full open; but the Letters of the 30th from Edinburgh say, that in Night before, the Rebels had taken Possession of all the Avenues leading to the Castle, in order to block it up.

Oct. 6. Field Marshal Wade, Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Forces in Scotland, set out with a large Retinue, from his House in Burlington street, for Doncaster in Yorkshire, to take upon him the Command of the Army assembling there.

About One in a Morning, a Detachment of the third Regiment of Foot Guards, under the Command of the Lord Charles Hay, and several other Officers, consisting of upwards of 100 Men, march'd from the Parade to Lincoln's Inn Fields Playhouse; and a Party of same Number was to mount Guard there every Day till further Orders, to be ready to quell any Disturbance that may happen from the Adherents of the Pretender. And the next Day Orders were issued for placing a double Guard at all the Magazines on the River.

Oct. 8. By an Express from Bristol, the Tryal Privateer of that Place commanded by Capt Connor, had taken off the Groyne, a Spanish Ship of 12 Guns and 60 Men, on board of which they found 2500 Muskets and Bayonets, above 100 Barrels of Gunpowder, five Tons of Shot, and seven Chests of Silver; design'd without doubt, for the Rebels in Scotland. There were two

Eighteen

Irishman on board her, one who had a Colonel's Commission of Horse; and the other a Pilot; who being brought up to Town, and examined before the Duke of Newcastle, the former was committed Newgate, and the latter to the Custody of a Messenger.

Whitehall, Oct. 8. By Letters of the 3d from Berwick, we are inform'd, that the Rebels continued in their Camp at Duddingston on the 2d; that the Day before, about Eleven o'Clock in the Forenoon, they began to dig a Trench, cross the Street of Edinburgh, a little below the Reservoir on the Castle Hill; about 3 in the Afternoon, the Garrison of the Castle fir'd on them with small Arms, kill'd three of the Rebels, and wounded the Officer who commanded the Party; upon which they discontinued to work at the Trench. About Four o'Clock, some great Guns were fired from the Castle, which did little or no Damage to the Town; immediately on the firing from the Castle, the Pretender's Son left the Abbey, and retir'd to the Camp at Duddingston.

Whitehall, Oct. 8. By Letters received this Day from Berwick, of the 5th Instant, the main Body of the Rebels were, on the 4th, still at Duddingston, and those left in Edinburgh continued where they had taken Post, in order to cut off all Communication with the Castle. There is likewise Advice from Glasgow that the Town had received a second Letter from the Pretender's Son, demanding the sum of 15,000 l. which Letter was accompany'd with Threats of Military Execution, if the Demand was not compl'd with. The Town, under this Necessity, prevail'd upon the Party of the Rebels, who had been sent to require the above Contribution, to lessen it to 5500 l. Which Sum they were oblig'd to pay immediately.

October 12. By Letters from Berwick of the 7th, there is Advice, that upon the 4th the Garison of the Castle of Edinburgh, under Favour of a great Fire of their Cannon from the Half-Moon, made a Trench cross the Castle Hill, half way between the Gate and the Houses, 14 Feet broad, and 16 deep, and from the Parapet, made by the Earth dug out of the Trench on the Side near the Castle, with the Fire of 200 Men of the Garison, clear'd the Street. Upon the 5th, by the help of the Town's People, they obtain'd twenty Black Cattle, a Quantity of Bread and Ale, and Water from the Reservoir. About Five that Evening, a considerable Detachment of the Rebels march'd up to the Castle Hill, to attack the Party of the Garison in the Trench, who retreated into the Castle upon their Approach without losing a Man; the Rebels, in creeping up to the South Side of the Hill, had 20 of their men kill'd by the Cannon from the Castle. About nine the same Night, between 4 and 5000 of them march'd into the Town from their Camp, and remain'd in it all Night, but none of them durst appear within the Reach of the Cannon. On Friday, Gladsmuir and Lord Ogilby join'd them with a Reinforcement of 700 Men. They had order'd the Landlords of all the Houses of Edinburgh, to pay in Half a Crown in the Pound, of all their Rents, as upon the 7th, upon Pain of Military Execution. Several People had been robb'd by them upon the Highway, and they had pillaged all the Country round about.
